Beautiful Club Reception to Mrs. Rudy.

A charming compliment to Mrs. James A. Rudy, president of the Woman's club, is the reception-tee this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock at the club house. It has been planned as a surprise to Mrs. Rudy and will close the club year in a most brilliant manner, as well as being a beautiful and fitting testimonial to the rare wisdom, tact and executive ability of a woman "nobly planned."

The club house is most effectively decorated in honor of the event. The club colors, white, yellow and green, are artistically carried out in the profusion of spring flowers. The massive white pillars are twined with ropes of green vines, giving a charming effect to the entire lower floor. The platform in the auditorium is a bank of palms and ferns, with white roses and yellow flags artistically massed. Suspended above the platform are the letters, "Our President," in white flowers and green. Brass jardinières and vases of white and yellow flags, roses and bridal wreath are effectively arranged throughout the rooms and hall. The graceful stairway is twined with vines of the southern climber banked with ferns. On the newel post a large jardinière of the yellow fleur-de-lis tied with a big bow of yellow ribbon, enhances the effect. Opening off the hall and auditorium, the pretty porch has been transformed into a beautiful bower of flowers and banks of ferns. The entire effect is ideal for a May-time reception and shows that the Woman's club is as feminine in nature as in name and responds readily to the "charm of dress."

The refreshments attractively carry out the club colors, consisting of orange ice, individual cakes laid in white with Mrs. Rudy's monogram in green.

There is no formal receiving line, but the chairman of each department has been asked by the Hospitality committee to assist in looking after the comfort and pleasure of the honor guest and of the visitors, who are limited to the club members. Each guest is supposed to leave on her visiting card a written greeting of love for the president.

able rides with some friends who have risen to affluence—I don't know how they arrived, but they are there—I found that the town has grown surprisingly. Not only is your improvement in brick and mortar, for when a house falls down, you have to erect another, but I noticed more civic pride. You have cut the weeds, and planted flowers and trees, and grass plots. I see little parks around the town and hear of more to come. You seem to have taken a brace on yourselves. Why, I can remember when I could stand at the river and smell Eleventh and Broadway. Now, you are being asked for pictures of your pretty, clean streets, and your well kept, sanitary slaughter houses, and dairies, and I hear of magazine articles that will cite Paducah as a model of a clean town. And, you men, around the board are responsible for this. Some day I expect to see you make of Paducah one of the great cities of the south."
